Paster spurting than usually characterizes the first twenty-four hours of the annual six day race was in evidence yeserday at Madison Square Garden when four teams fell by the wayside. Shortly after 8 o'clock in the evening a spurt that lasted more than a quarter of an ping a lap bening the hymic features. The combinations that were left in the rut were Kopsky and Wohlrab, Sullivan and Anderson. Suter and Madonna and Ruddi-Russe and Vanderstuyft. To add insult to injury another whirlwind sprint was started about 10, o'clock, and in this Vanderstuyft and Ruddi-Russe lost two laps and the same as a ten found affair, I need lots of work in actual combat to adjust the ranges properly for such a digust the ranges properly for such and stamina and started about 10, o'clock, and in this vanderstuyft and Ruddi-Russe lost two laps and the same thing happened to Kopsky and Wohlrab. Suter and Madonna slipped back another lap in the jump, was largely responsible for the first to slip away, from the humb, and the burney of the feature foods as the fight with yound and stamina and speed to carry me the limit of the same as the fight with White is bound to be unless I am able to put him away.

In the meantime the force of organized baseball apear serenely confident. One man yesterday made the bold assertion that he would bet any reasonable amount that the Federal League would of training for White, and while I am about it I lintend to accommodate justified.

was started about 10 o'clock, and in this Vanderstuyft and Ruddi-Russe lost two lass and the same tiling happened to Kopsky and Wohlrab. Suter and Madonna slipped back another lap in the lam.

Dupuy was largely responsible for the first stolen lap of the week when he tried to slip away from the bunch and started the initial rush. When he stopped Spears took up the running, but old Joe Fogler brought the field up on even terms. They began to ease up to a normal pace, when Fogler caught them napping and his famous jump sprint opened up a gap of twenty-five yards. Fast and furlous riding followed, with Egg. Corry and Dupuy alternating in the second control of the second contro the pace. When the whirl was cleared up the scorers found the four teams mentioned one circuit behind the others. Efforts to win $10 prizes for five laps were largely responsible for this early less of distance. Just before 8 o'clock Spears won one of these and shortly in advance of the announcement of the 11 o'clock score McNamara won another. The hot clip with which the riders circled the saucer kept the record always within sight, and at 10 o'clock they were one cound ahead of the best previous figures. During the late morning hours the care not to let his reputation suffer iders managed to draw away from the from a referee's verdict in a limited old record through long and frequent round encounter.
